Hi Samantha!

Thanks for taking care of our plants while we're on holiday. We've got a lot of them, but don't worry. It's not difficult. We'll water everything before we leave on Wednesday, so you'll only need to give them water two days later. They should be fine until Monday, when we get back. We'll get back late that night, so you can come on Tuesday for your money. Or if you are free on Friday, we will be having some friends for dinner, so you can join us.

Thanks again! See you next week!

James

During the 19th century, football was a popular sport at many English schools. In football, a player is not allowed to touch the ball with his hands. One day, a young student at a Rugby school picked up the ball during a match and ran with it. Word spread through England of what he had done, and students at other schools began to play a new kind of football that allowed a player to touch the ball with his hands. This game eventually became the sport of rugby.

The sisters offered to send the flake by post, but Kerr will pick it up in Virginia. That way it will not be harmed. This is not the first corn flake that Kerr has bought. Last year he bought the world's largest flake, but it was broken when it was delivered. Similar items have sold on eBay, including a corn flake that looked like Hawaii and a potato chip that looked like Florida. The sisters will use the money for a vacation.

Did you know what a dollar is made of?

Do you think it's made of paper? Wrong! It's kind of confusing because we often call it "paper money." But there is no paper, or even wood, used in any of the U.S. printed money. All U.S. currency is made of 75 percent cotton and 25 percent linen. It's closer to cloth than paper. This product is made by the Crane Company, which is based in Dalton, Mass. The Crane Company created the patent for this special material for the Treasury in 1879.

From the centre of London to the centre of learning

If you find yourself with a day to spare, take a trip to the beautiful city of Cambridge. A fast and frequent service is provided, which means that you can really make the most of your day. Trains run every half an hour from London to Cambridge and the journey time is only 45 minutes non-stop. There are two great trips for you to choose from.

Trip to Cambridge

This trip introduces you to Cambridge and the magnificent architecture of its museums and famous university colleges, some of which date back to 1209. Many of the world's most brilliant minds have studied here. William Wordsworth, Sir Isaac Newton and Charles Darwin have all graced these halls of learning, as have 13 British Prime Ministers, 62 Nobel Prize winners and countless leading world figures.

Trip to Ely and Cambridge

Or pack more into your day and take our second trip. This trip also includes Cambridge, but first takes you to Ely, which is dominated by its ancient cathedral and monastic buildings. Ely is also home to one of the largest collections of medieval architecture still in daily use. You can also visit the former house of Oliver Cromwell and take your time browsing through the historic rooms, exhibitions and displays.

Each trip also goes into Madingley, famous for the only American World War II cemetery in the British Isles. Many of those buried at this peaceful site were the young crew members of American aircraft based in Britain between 1941 and 1945.

Getting there

◆ To Cambridge

Catch the train and on arrival in Cambridge head for the Guide Friday office located at the station. From there you can catch the tour bus and be shown the very best of what Cambridge has to offer, taking in Madingley on the way. Your Guide Friday ticket is included in the cost of your railway ticket and it is valid¹ all day – so you hop on and off as often as you like.

By showing your rail ticket you can also claim 10% discounts on punting along the River Cam and cycle hire or a free drink with your meal at the Holiday Inn.

From London we recommend you catch the 08:15, 08:45 or 09:15 train. Please give yourself about 20 minutes at King's Cross railway station.

◆ To Ely and Cambridge

Take the direct train to Ely to spend a few quiet hours visiting both the cathedral and one of the many museums – entry is included in the package price.

You can also enjoy a cream tea in the museum – absolutely free. Then board the train back to Cambridge where you can tour the city by Guide Friday bus, taking in Madingley, and stop off at Silver Street to go punting on the River Cam behind King's College. All of this is included in the ticket price.

From London, we recommend you catch the 07:45 or the 08:45 train, although trains do run 45 minutes after every hour throughout the day. Please give yourself about 20 minutes at King's Cross railway station. The best time to go by train from Ely to Cambridge is at 11:28 or 11:58.

Trains from Cambridge to London are at 15 and 45 minutes past every hour, although we recommend your last train should be the 19:15.

Dear Michael,

Have you not received my letters? Why haven't you responded? Please write me, or I may buy a ticket to India and come to find you!

The weather has turned out nice. Funny, because April is always so gloomy, especially here in London. If the weather holds, the trees will be in blossom¹ when you return. My life here in London is different than it used to be. I wake up, go to work, and come home. It's quite boring, and at the weekend I'm too tired from my job to do anything. Only now I realise how exciting and rich my life was when you were here. I especially miss our hiking and cycling trips and so do our friends, especially Mike and Mary. They went to Wales last weekend and stopped at the campsite near Seaton. They say that it has changed a lot since our last hiking expedition.

I hope you're being careful. I know you've got lots of experience, but the Himalayas are bigger than anything you've climbed before. Please stay safe and warm. And take lots of pictures! Mike and Mary are planning a dinner party in July and they are looking forward to your amazing photos. It was meant to be a surprise, but, to tell the truth, the photos are not important to me – the only thing I want is to have you back here, safe.

Ok, now the real reason I'm writing is... I want to tell you something, but I don't want you to get angry. Harry died. But it wasn't my fault! I fed him every day, just like you showed me. I even cleaned the water in his bowl. I don't know what happened. I found him today just floating. I'm sorry. I know you loved that goldfish. But don't worry, because I bought you another one yesterday. In fact, it looks like Harry, so you probably won't notice any difference. Other than that, your flat is fine, and all of your plants are healthy.

Well, it's midnight, and I need to sleep. Please be careful. And don't forget to send me a postcard before you leave next week! Remember, I'll be out of town when you return, because I have a conference in Paris next week. So, we'll see each other in two weeks!

Miss you!

Love,

Carol
